Profile

Jason Meucci is a facilitator, coach, and speaker specializing in leadership development, team building and, culture crafting - particularly through the lens of DISC, emotional intelligence, and vulnerability-based trust. He combines the magic of DISC with his foundational values of Care, Connection, and Contribution to help others discover, empower, and recognize the best in themselves and their teammates.

As Vice President of Facilitation and Coaching at Take Flight Learning, Jason provides leaders and teams the insight, tools, and learning experiences to inform, equip, and inspire how they can better understand and communicate with the people they work with - and the people they live with. With 20 years of experience in people leadership and talent development through his own roles at Fortune 200 companies, Jason has also consulted with and delivered training at organizations that include Delta Air Lines, Gonzaga University, Tegna, United Airlines, Lam Research, Circle K, STERIS and various agencies of the Federal Government.

Jason's purpose is to create a better world by building a better world of work, which he aspires to do through both his coaching and facilitation. He's most passionate about ensuring everyone can finish their day feeling that who they are and what they do matters. He holds a Master's Degree in Organizational & Change Leadership from Gonzaga University & multiple certifications in talent development, coaching, and facilitation. His primary sources of joy and gratitude are travel, photography, and learning.
